Construction Update
Construction efforts on the new building devoted to communications studies, informatics, and computer science have begun and will continue over the next 13 months leading to the opening of the building in August 2013.
We apologize for any inconvenience that this construction may cause and appreciate your patience. Here are some specifics you should be aware of:

Pedestrian Traffic:
Construction site fencing will be erected during the week of July 17-20 and will remain in place throughout construction. Pedestrian traffic between Kirkbride Hall and Old Main via the path between Wolfgram Memorial Library and Academic Center North will be closed for the duration of construction. You are encouraged to follow pedestrian routes around Academic Center North and Wolfgram Memorial Library during construction.

Construction Noise:
As with the construction of Founders Hall, a certain level of noise and dust can be expected in that section of campus throughout the duration of construction.

Parking:
Approximately 25 spaces in the Academic Center North and Wolfgram Memorial Library parking lots will be unavailable during construction. Faculty, staff, and students who use these parking spaces are encouraged to park in the Kirkbride parking lot throughout the duration of construction. All other spaces in these two parking lots will remain available during construction. Again, we apologize for any inconvenience that this construction may cause and appreciate your patience.
