Fall 2020

Widener
University

Class of 1955

Vincent Land, BS, accounting

Vince Land would like his fellow classmates to know that his wife Dolly passed away on April 21, 2020, after a four-month battle with pancreatic cancer.

Class of 1972

James VanSciver, BA, behavioral science

Dr. James H. VanSciver has published his fifth book: Hi! I'm Elvis. It is about a nine-week old Sheltie giving advice to children and can be found at Amazon, Barnes & Noble, and Xlibris. For a personalized, signed copy, send a request via email to paulamv723@gmail.com. VanSciver's four other books are Close Play at Home, Carnage of a Curveball, Running on Empty, and Generalities of Distinction.

Class of 1975 & Class of 1977

Bill Guglielmi '75, BA, government & politics, and Trish Guglielmi '77, BA, community psychology

The Guglielmis will receive the Soaring Eagle Award from the Greater Tampa Bay Area Council, Boy

Scouts of America. Bill and Trish, married for almost 43 years, became active in Scouts when their twin sons (both Eagle Scouts and U.S. Army officers) joined Tiger Cubs in 1990. Their daughter joined the Girl Scouts and is a Girl Scout Silver Award holder and an archivist at the Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences. They have three grandchildren, one of whom is in Cub Scouts and two who are future Scouts. When Bill and Trish met at Widener University in 1973, neither anticipated that Scouting would play such a role in their lives. They are members of Cub Scout Pack 1381's pack committee and are Fort Brooke District Members at Large. They are also members of the Philmont and Summit Staff Associations and the BSA's Second Century Society and are James E. West Fellows. Both have also served as instructors at Philmont Training Center and staffed multiple jamborees. Bill, a retired Army officer and a retired Lockheed Martin project manager, is the council's vice president of membership. Bill has been honored with several awards, including the Silver Antelope, Silver Beaver, OA Vigil Honor, OA Founders, Distinguished Commissioner, St. George, Bronze Pelican, and the Scoutmaster Award of Merit. A retired guidance counselor from Hillsborough County public schools, Trish is the council's wood badge coordinator and is the Area 4 special needs Scouting chair. She has been honored with the Silver Beaver Award and the William D. Boyce New-Unit Organizer Award.

Ultragenyx Pharmaceutical, Inc. (NASDAQ: RARE), a biopharmaceutical company focused on the development and commercialization of novel products for serious rare and ultra-rare genetic diseases, appointed Ernie Meyer as executive vice president and chief human resources officer, effective September 1, 2020. In this newly created role, Meyer leads all aspects of the Global Human Resources and Facilities operations. Meyer joins Ultragenyx from Portola Pharmaceuticals, where he was executive vice president, chief human resources officer, since 2018. Before Portola, he spent more than 13 years at Celgene, most recently as executive vice president of Human Resources and Corporate Services. While at Celgene, he played a significant role in the company's growth to more than 7,000 employees in 37 countries. Prior to Celgene, Meyer spent 10 years at Motorola in a variety of human resource roles of increasing scope and responsibility.

Class of 1985

James Morehead, AS, selected studies

Lt. Jim Morehead was chosen to replace Scott Bohn as West Chester borough police chief by Mayor Dianne Herrin. Morehead is 54 years old, married to his high school sweetheart, Carolyn, and has two grown sons, Garrett and Christopher. He attended Widener University for his associate's degree (1984-86) and West Chester University for his bachelor's degree (1986-89). He is currently attending Wilmington University. He joined the West Chester Police Department in 1989 and has worked in all capacities and divisions in the department, including Patrol, Narcotics, Detectives, Community Policing, SWAT, and Administration. He attended the FBI National Academy in 2014 in Quantico, Virginia. Morehead started the West Chester Regional SWAT Team in 2001 and is team commander. From 2007 to 2014, he worked at the Chester County Design Team for Public Safety Training Center as well as the Active Threat Training Advisory Board for Chester County.

Class of 1986 Law

Marc D. Weiner, JD, law

Mark Weiner has been appointed associate dean of Academic Administration at the Edward J. Bloustein School of Planning and Public Policy at Rutgers University. Weiner also serves as the executive director of undergraduate programs for the Bloustein School and is an associate research professor. In addition, he was selected as a Fellow for the 2020–2021 convening of the Big Ten Academic Alliance Department Executive Officers Seminar. He is a police instructor for the Chester County Public Safety Training Center (2014–present) and South-East Pennsylvania Terrorism Task Force Board Member (2012–present).

Class of 1989

Frank Dolce, BS, management

Delaware County's diverse dining scene has been enhanced with the addition of Chef Reeky's. Situated at 1301 Edgmont Ave. next to the Widener University Chester campus, the restaurant is attached to the Day's Inn, right off I-95. Open daily for breakfast, lunch, and dinner, the BYOB restaurant offers a fusion of comfort food, signature dishes, and some vegan fare, as well as traditional menu offerings. A partnership between longtime restauranteurs Tarik Ryant and Frank Dolce, Chef Reeky's is gearing up to be a staple in the community.

Class of 1991 Law

Martin Belisario, JD, law

Panitch Schwarze Belisario & Nadel, LLP, is pleased to announce that Martin G. Belisario was named to the 2021 edition of The Best Lawyers in America®, one of the legal profession's oldest and most respected peer-review publications.

Class of 1993 Law

Jeffrey Masom, JD, law

Franklin Templeton announced the appointment of Jeff Masom, CFA®, as head of U.S. Distribution, overseeing U.S. retail and institutional distribution, including U.S. marketing and product strategy. Masom most recently served as global head of Institutional Distribution with RBC Global Asset Management in Boston since 2018, following his prior role as senior managing director and head of U.S. Sales for Legg Mason. During his 20-year tenure with Legg Mason, he held various distribution roles and made key impacts in the areas of product innovation and retirement solutions. He had direct oversight of all national account channels, including retail national accounts, DCIO, sub-advisory, private bank, RIA, bank trust, family office, and parts of the institutional marketplace. Masom joined the firm in August 2020 and will be based in Baltimore, Maryland. F. Ty Edmondson, JD, law—Zai Lab appointed F. Ty Edmondson, its longtime in-house pharmaceutical attorney, as its chief legal officer. Edmondson said he is "honored to now be a part of this mission and to help Zai Lab expand into a fully integrated biopharmaceutical company discovering, developing, and commercializing innovative medicines for patients around the world."

Class of 1994

Patricia Scherle, BS, nursing, '99 MS, health administration

St. Mary's Health System has hired Patricia A. Scherle as its vice president of patient care services and chief nursing officer. Scherle will lead St. Mary's nursing staff and oversee the implementation and coordination of programs and initiatives to ensure patients consistently receive the very best clinical care. Prior to joining Covenant Health, Scherle was the vice president and chief nursing officer at Chestnut Hill Hospital in Philadelphia, a 148-bed nonprofit community teaching hospital. Her tenure at Tower Health/Community Health Systems, which includes Chestnut Hill Hospital, spanned 10 years in various leadership roles at multiple hospitals.

Class of 1994 Law

Christen Pionzio, JD law

Hamburg, Rubin, Mullin, Maxwell & Lupin is pleased to announce that Christen Pionzio is included in the 2021 edition of The Best Lawyers in America®. Pionzio is recognized for land use and zoning law.

Class of 1996

Blaise Coleman, BS, accounting

Endo International has found its new president and chief executive officer in-house. The Dublin, Ireland-based pharmaceutical company, which has its U.S. headquarters in Malvern, said Blaise Coleman will take over as CEO. He will also join the company's Board of Directors. Coleman has served as executive vice president and chief financial officer at Endo (NASDAQ: ENDP) since 2016. Prior to joining Endo in 2015, Coleman held leadership roles at AstraZeneca and Johnson & Johnson. He began his career at PricewaterhouseCoopers after graduating from Widener University. Christian Albert, BS, hospitality management—Cambridge Chick-fil-A operator Christian Albert will oversee day-to-day activities of the business, employing approximately 100 team members and continuing to cultivate relationships with local schools, organizations, and neighboring businesses. Born and raised in Baltimore, Albert initially began working at age 14 alongside his sister at a Chick-fil-A at the White Marsh Mall in Baltimore County. After earning a degree in hospitality management from Widener University, Albert became a food service director with the Navy as a civilian in Virginia for six years. He later started a defense consulting firm, Coda Solutions, where he served as CEO for more than five years. Albert's interest in Chick-fil-A was reignited several years later when his brother-in-law became a Chick-fil-A operator in Hanover, Pennsylvania. After he decided to return to the restaurant hospitality industry and pursue becoming a Chick-fil-A operator, he surmounted difficult odds: The company receives nearly 60,000 applications yearly for approximately 100 franchise opportunities.

Class of 1997 Law

Susan Looney, JD, law

Susan Looney has been appointed as the vice chair of Payscale ranks Widener in the top 18% nationwide with an alumni mid-career salary of $101,100. And Niche.com has named Widener a Best Value College in the Greater Philadelphia area.

the Reading Hospital Board of Trustees effective July 23. The board is composed of dedicated volunteers who provide community oversight to Reading Hospital as it fulfills its mission to provide high quality, cost-effective healthcare for the communities it serves. Dr. Looney joined the Board of Trustees in June 2019. She currently serves as president at Reading Area Community College (RACC). In her 22 years as a full-time community college educator, Looney has worked in diverse roles including professor, assistant to the campus director, and director of corporate and community programs at Delaware Technical Community College, and as interim assistant vice president of academic affairs at Colorado Mountain College. Looney was named dean of instruction at Reading Area Community College in 2014 and named senior vice president of academic affairs/provost at RACC in 2015.

Class of 1998

Carter Hunt, MPT, physical therapy

Carter Hunt was named chief executive officer of Falmouth Hospital in 2020. He joins the Falmouth Hospital leadership team from within Cape Cod Healthcare (CCHC), where he had served as administrator of specialty and hospital-based practices. Hunt has held several roles at CCHC since 2014, providing operational oversight for outpatient specialty practices for the Medical Affiliates of Cape Cod and hospital-based physician practices for Cape Cod Hospital. He also served as the Ambulatory Advisory Group lead for CCHC's implementation of Epic. Prior to joining CCHC, Hunt served as vice president of clinical services for Southcoast Health System based in New Bedford, MA, where he oversaw surgical and neuroscience services, Southcoast physician practices, rehabilitation, wound care, and occupational medicine departments. He has held clinical operations leadership roles at Danbury Health System in Danbury, CT; Baystate Medical Center in Springfield, MA; and PRO Physical Therapy in Wilmington, DE. Carter is also a licensed physical therapist.

Class of 1999

Mark Zamrowski, ME,
civil engineering

Gilbane Building Company is pleased to welcome Mark Zamrowski to its Philadelphia office as a senior project executive leading its growing Special Projects Group (SPG). Zamrowski oversees operations of the SPG team in Philadelphia, providing leadership, ensuring operational continuity, and positioning and expanding services. Zamrowski has more than 25 years of experience managing fast-track projects for healthcare, commercial, higher education, and life sciences clients. He specializes in renovations to occupied facilities and sensitive environments in which communication, quality control, and risk management are paramount. Zamrowski has worked with a wide range of clients across Philadelphia, including Main Line Health, Penn Medicine, Temple University Hospital, Drexel University, and LaSalle University.

Class of 2000 Law

J. Pierce Shields, JD, law
Firearms Policy Coalition (FPC) announced that Mr. J. Pierce Shields has joined the FPC team as its national director of Advancement. In that role, Shields will lead the organization's new Office of Advancement, established to support and grow the organization's liberty and freedom-focused programs, which include litigation, research, policy, grassroots, education, outreach, and others. He brings more than 20 years of experience as an attorney, banker, and national-scale fundraiser. He recently served for nearly a decade as the assistant director of Planned Giving for the National Rifle Association.

Class of 2001 Law

Elizabeth Devine, JD, law
When the Diocese of Scranton wanted to add a counseling position to help its elementary students in Lackawanna County, it turned to Liz Devine. The Scranton counselor and licensed attorney has spent the last 3.5 years guiding students on everything from self-esteem issues to developing healthy relationships. Devine spends one day every week at each of the schools. She gives lessons on subjects such as kindness, empathy, and friendship, and also helps students one-on-one. Devine also brings in guest speakers to shine a light on issues such as mental health and wellness, perseverance, goal-setting, and safety. She has coordinated visits from such groups as the Lou Ruspi Jr. Foundation and the Lackawanna County District Attorney's Office, as well as from wounded combat veteran Earl Granville and Pennsylvania State Police Trooper Alex Douglass. Devine helps identify kids who might need academic or behavioral assistance. She serves on the diocese's crisis response team and offers educational opportunities for parents on such topics as what parents need to know about social media, suicide, and other hot topics. She organized a session on the dangers of vaping, bringing in a pulmonary critical care doctor and police to talk to the group. "I feel like I can understand what's going on with my students," Devine said. "It also keeps me attuned with what's going on, too." Devine sees herself and her coworkers as being partners with the parents, and helping them is critical, she said, because "the world is hard enough."

Class of 2002

Sean Wagner, BA,
communications

On July 1, 2020, Sean Wagner became the Phi Delta Theta International Fraternity's fifth executive, serving as executive vice president and CEO of Phi Delta Theta International Fraternity and president of the Phi Delta Theta Foundation. Prior to this, Wagner served Phi Delta Theta for 17 years in many capacities.

Class of 2008

Luke Weber, BA,
government and politics
Saxton & Stump is pleased to share that attorney Luke T. Weber was elected to the Board of Directors for the Lancaster Bar Association (LBA). Weber is serving a one-year term as chair of the Young Lawyers Section and leads efforts to coordinate educational and networking activities for section members. The LBA has more than 700 members, including active and retired attorneys and judges, as well as law students. Weber joined Saxton & Stump in 2015 and focuses his practice in healthcare litigation. He was named to Super Lawyer's "Pennsylvania Rising Stars" list in 2017, 2018, and 2019 for his work in medical professional liability defense.

He received his law degree from The Pennsylvania State University Dickinson School of Law and his B.A. from Widener University. Weber also serves as the Pennsylvania Bar Association (PBA) Young Lawyers Division liaison to the PBA Health Law Committee. Laura Zitnik, DPT, physical therapy—Laura Zitnik joined Dartmouth-Hitchcock in the outpatient physical therapy department at the Heater Road clinic. Zitnik has been working with orthopedic patients in an outpatient setting for seven years. She has experience in acute rehabilitation and is currently working toward a certification in orthopedic manual physical therapy, which she expects to complete this fall.

Christopher Hertz, ME, engineering management

STV has promoted Christopher Hertz, P.E., PMP, to vice president. Hertz joined STV in 2002. As STV's chief communications systems engineer in the firm's Transportation & Infrastructure Division (T&I), he has proven expertise in fiber-optic cabling, data network, supervisory control and data acquisition, CCTV, ITS, and other systems. Hertz also has a demonstrated track record in providing designs that successfully integrate and interface new systems with existing rail communications systems. This specialized skillset has enabled him to support a broad range of market areas with his communications systems expertise, including highways, bridges, and tunnels; aviation and ports; and bus, passenger rail, and ferry infrastructure. Hertz gives back to the industry as an active member of the Eno Center for Transportation and of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers Vehicular Technology Society's Philadelphia Chapter. He holds a project management professional (PMP) certification and is a professional engineer in six states and the District of Columbia.

Class of 2008 Law

Kyle Everly, JD, law

The Nicolson Law Group is pleased to announce that Kyle G. Everly has been elected to partnership with the firm. Kyle served as the president of the Moe Levine Trial Advocacy Honor Society and was a recipient of the James J. Manderino Award for Trial Advocacy.

Troy Riddle, JD, law

NRDC (Natural Resources Defense Council) announced the appointment of Troy Riddle (he/him) to the new position of chief diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI) officer. A thought leader with decades of experience championing diversity in the academic and legal space, Riddle implements strategies and initiatives that enhance NRDC's commitment to a diverse, equitable, and anti-racist workplace and mission. Riddle's broad experiences include serving as assistant dean of diversity, equity, and inclusion at the John Marshall Law School in Chicago, assistant dean and multicultural affairs officer at Widener University Delaware Law School, and assistant director for diversity initiatives with the Law School Admission Council (LSAC). His leadership and vision to promote diversity, equity, and inclusion earned him the Diversity Excellence in Leadership Award from the National Association of Law Student Affairs Professionals and the Illinois State Bar Association Diversity Leadership Award.

Class of 2010 Law

Agatha Mingos, JD, law

Ever since she could talk, Agatha (Aggie) Mingos wanted to be a lawyer, so that she could speak for those that couldn't speak for themselves. Hard work and determination have given this daughter of Greek immigrants her wish. Mingos is a senior associate at the Manhattan-based law firm of Koutsoudakis & Iakovou Law Group, PLLC, which just announced its expansion to Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Greece. Her specialties are commercial real estate, commercial litigation, and employment law. Mingos grew up in Newtown Square, Pennsylvania, and was a regular church-goer at St. George Greek Orthodox Church in Media, Pennsylvania. Mingos has dual citizenship in Greece and the United States. She earned a BA from Villanova University. While working toward her JD at Widener's Delaware Law School, Mingos had a judicial externship with Justice Henry duPont Ridgely of the Delaware Supreme Court. Mingos followed that up with a two-year judicial clerkship with President Judge James T. Vaughn of the Delaware Superior Court, who is now a Justice of the Delaware Supreme Court. From 2012 to 2015, while at White and Williams, Mingos practiced law in Delaware where she worked on commercial litigation, employment, and corporate bankruptcy matters. From 2015 to 2019, Mingos shifted her practice to the neighboring states of Pennsylvania and New Jersey where she worked for an Am Law 200 law firm, Dinsmore and Shohl, LLP, based in Wayne, Pennsylvania. While there, Mingos focused her practice on commercial real estate. In 2018, Mingos moved to New York City and soon after landed at Koutsoudakis & Iakovou. Looking ahead, Mingos hopes to keep expanding her business and continue to develop her leadership roles at Koutsoudakis & Iakovou.

Class of 2012

Matthew McManus, BS,
sport management

Matthew McManus comes to St. John Paul II from his alma mater, Malvern Preparatory School in Malvern, PA. Since 2016, Matt was Malvern Prep's director of Alumni Relations and Athletic Development. In this role, he successfully developed and launched several initiatives, including an annual 5K race, a new online networking platform, and a rotational internship experience for seniors with Malvern alumni. During his 7-year tenure as an assistant coach for the varsity basketball team, the team wrapped up the winningest season in school history, recording 27 wins. Additionally, the team captured its first undefeated league championship in four decades and finished second in the state. Along with coaching hoops, McManus was the head coach for the middle school JV lacrosse team for four years. As a student, McManus was a three-year varsity letter winner and team captain for the basketball team. After graduating from Malvern in 2008, he went on to play at the Division III level at DeSales University and Widener University.

Class of 2012 Law

Sarah Dooley, JD, law

Sarah Dooley of Duffy + Fulginiti was appointed editor-in-chief of The Verdict, the bi-monthly newsletter of the Philadelphia Trial Lawyers Association in August 2020.

Class of 2018

Stephanie Blannett, MSW,
social work

As the quarantines continue across the globe, people have taken to their kitchens to comfort themselves and their families with baked goods. Maybe your humble attempt has resulted in some cookies that have turned out as hard as concrete on the outside and runny as molasses on the inside. Don't feel bad. Netflix has a show for you. Artistically designed desserts, horrible bakers, and a hilarious host combine in Nailed It! It's a recipe for fun, and when you mix in a contestant such as Stephanie Blannett, someone with a sweet personality and self-deprecating sense of humor, you've got the icing on the cake. Blannett, along her twin sister, Stacey, recently appeared on season four of Nailed It! — the Netflix show hosted by comedian Nicole Byer and pastry chef Jacques Torres, which asks contestants with less than a teaspoon of baking talent to tackle the challenge of recreating extremely detailed artistic cakes and other desserts within a strict time limit. The show's website describes it as "part reality show, part hot mess."

Class of 2019

Jordan Powell, BA,
criminal justice

The Argos (Toronto Argonauts Football Club) signed Jordan Powell in February, one of many additions to a franchise coming off back-to-back four-win seasons. Once the CFL is officially able to return to business, Powell will get his feet in a new league playing in a new country. Athletic, instinctive, physical, the attributes Powell possess have become the standard among the many players the Argos's new regime has signed this off-season. Powell is a versatile defender who can line up in the back end or be used as linebacker. Undrafted, Powell signed a free-agent deal with the Chicago Bears and later with the Washington Redskins. He would play in the XFL for Los Angeles and even joined the real world when he accepted a security position at a local hospital in his home town. Powell recently turned 23, which is the number he wore for most of his career.

Class of 2019 Law

Heather DeLoe, JD, law

Clarion Co.
approved a contract agreement with Heather DeLoe for assistant public defender services. DeLoe comes to Clarion from Indiana County.

Marriage Announcement

Victor Gazella Jr. '11 and Amanda Tracy were engaged in June and plan to be married at St. John the Evangelist Church in Pittston in the fall of 2020.
