RESEARCH GRANT PARTICIPATION

Pilot Grant Awardee (8/2023 – 7/2024- extended) from the Hopkins' Economics of Alzheimer's Disease & Services (HEADS) Center, National Institute on Aging P30AG066587 (Co-PIs: Jennifer L. Wolff, PhD, and Daniel Polsky, PhD)

Home Health Utilization in Older Adults with Dementia in Traditional Medicare and Medicare Advantage

We aim to examine home health care access and utilization for older adults with dementia by leveraging linked home health patient assessment, traditional Medicare claims, and Medicare Advantage encounter data.

Role: co-PI

A Multisite Case Study Approach to Understanding Differences in Post-Acute Home Health Access and Outcomes between Traditional Medicare and Medicare Advantage
Commonwealth Fund

The goal of this project is to better understand how home health agencies, hospitals, and Medicare Advantage plans interact and influence care availability and delivery. My role in this project includes planning, conducting, and analyzing qualitative interviews with home health agencies.

PI: Kali Thomas, PhD

Role: Co-Investigator

T32AG066576 National Institute on Aging (8/2022 – 8/2024)

Health Services and Outcomes Research Training Program

This Ruth L. Kirschstein National Research Service Award supports emerging leaders in the field of health services research whose work focuses on geriatrics and gerontology.

Co-PIs: Jennifer L. Wolff, PhD and Cynthia Boyd, MD

Primary Mentor: Katherine A. Ornstein, PhD, MPH

Role: Postdoctoral Research Fellow

Consumer Health Information Technology to Engage and Support ADRD Caregivers: Research Program to Address ADRD Implementation Milestone 13.I

R35AG072310, National Institutes on Aging

Within this project, I analyzed qualitative interviews of care partners to understand their experiences with a patient-portal-delivered agenda-setting tool. We found the tool has helped to formalize dementia care partner identification and inclusion in health care delivery. Findings from this study will inform future refinements to the tool.

PI: Jennifer L. Wolff, PhD

Role: Postdoctoral Research Fellow
